KING CHARLES III

Kindly shall he rule us
In all this might and may
Nation celebrations had their day
Great power he will have

Crowds from the commonwealth and beyond
Hoarded up into one place
All shall bow before him
Reigning for the years to come
Lord Charles III was crowned our sovereign
Endlessly cheered upon with praising voices
Singing united "GOD SAVE THE KING"

A poem to celebrate King Charles III Coronation

In grand procession to the throne,
Amidst a sea of people known,
King Charles will take his seat,
When the coronation day is finally complete.

The crowds will cheer and bells will clang,
As he will be crowned with the purest of gold,
A symbol of his royal might,
A shining beacon in the light.

Let us raise a joyful cry,
To King Charles, our king on high,
In his coronation, we see,
The promise of a bright new destiny.

LONG LIVE THE KING

For the king
Weightless stars drop silently like petals
From a distant place way up far beyond the night sky.
Spring flowers blossom and fly away
Everyone has treasured the royal family even to this day

Fireworks ignite the darkness with light
Rainbows burst, more stars, come petals
They scare away the fright
The day of the Kings Coronation will certainly be bright
For King Charles III will serve the nation right

Proudly yielding the crown
In honour of King Charles let us bow down
For King Charles is our new monarch
On a new legacy he will now embark

King Charles a very passionate king
He has many passions including one to sing
But the music he most of all loves is classical
As well as loving music the king is very clever and practical
